

Understanding a Sad Event

We live in Rochester.

We care about our friends, our family, and all the people who live here. We all take care of each other.

Usually we can all keep each other safe. But this week, there was an accident.

A boy named Trevyan ran away from his school. He got lost. It made his family scared, and it made a lot of other people scared too.

A lot of people in our community helped to look for him. We worked very hard to find him.

When they found Trevyan it was too late to help him. It made everyone very sad. Our parents and friends and families are all sad about Trevyan. If my family has been sad or upset it might be because of this.

It is okay to be sad or scared about what happened. If I am feeling sad I can tell my family or I can ask questions.

It is also important to remember some things.

Our community is designed to keep us safe. Our parents, friends, and neighbors keep us safe. Our schools, police officers, and firefighters all work to keep us safe.

People may be sad about Trevyan and about this event for a while. It takes time to get through being sad.

We are all here to take care of each other. We can remember Trevyan by taking care of each other and by being good to each other.
